Hitler May Have Died of Brain Hemorrhage

'IKE' DOUBTS HERO'S DEATH STORY OF NAZIS

First Announcement From Allied Official Sheds New Light On Reports

VON RIBBENTROP OUSTED

New Move Of Doenitz May Mean Surrender Bid Will Be Made

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today there was some evidence that Adolf Hitler had died of a brain hemorrhage instead of a hero's death in battle as the Nazis claimed.

The statement by Eisenhower was the first from any Allied official to shed light on the mystery of Hitler's reported death.

Eisenhower said the enemy claim that Hitler died fighting the Russians in Berlin was "in contradiction of facts" given by Heinrich Himmler at a conference with Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden at Luebeck eight days ago.

Himmler and a General Schillerbrugg, who accompanied him to the conference, said Hitler had a brain hemorrhage and might not live 48 hours, Eisenhower said in a statement issued through supreme headquarters in France.

Even though this version of Hitler's death was based on Nazi information, it had the merit of coming to Eisenhower through Bernadotte, a neutral. Observers were inclined to put more credence in the Himmler version than in the dramatic account broadcast by the Hamburg radio yesterday.

A high British source at the San Francisco conference told the United Press Saturday that Hitler had suffered a stroke and could not live more than 24 hours. That raised the possibility that Hitler's death might have been covered up by the Nazis for two or three days to give them time to build up a legend of a hero's death.

Himmler admitted that Germany was finished, Eisenhower said in the official confirmation of the Luebeck conference. Bernadotte said in Stockholm yesterday that he could make no disclosure of his activity as the reported intermediary in Nazi-Nazi negotiations.

Eisenhower said the radio statement by Admiral Karl Doenitz, announcing Hitler's death and proclaiming himself as his successor, represented an attempt to drive a wedge between the Russians and Anglo-Americans. The attempt was doomed to failure, he said, because "nothing can change the agreed operations of the Allied armies."

Doenitz was reported already to have ousted Joachim Von Ribbentrop as foreign minister in what may be the first move toward trying to end the war.

THE ACCUSING FINGER POINTS--

ONE OF THE SURVIVORS of the Gardelegen, Germany, prison camp where Nazis set fire to a barn in which hundreds of prisoners were herded, Edward Antoniuk, 18, points an accusing finger at Kasimir Drygalski, 22, who reportedly went around and shot the prisoners still living after the fire died down. Antoniuk was saved only because he feigned death. Drygalski also was a prisoner, but he was given his freedom if he agreed to carry out the Nazis' shooting order. A Yank guard is in the background.

SOVIET ASSAULT FORCES STORM BERLIN REDOUBT

Chancellery Where Hitler Reported Killed Under Russian Siege

NAZIS FIGHT DESPERATELY

Battle Roaring Into Final Hours But Defenders Refuse To Quit

By United Press
Soviet assault forces today were reported storming the ramparts of Adolf Hitler's once ornate chancellery where the Nazis said he died fighting yesterday.

Moscow dispatches said Russian siege armies had driven many wedges deep into Berlin's innermost redoubt, apparently splintering it into a few isolated nests of resistance.

Red army troops were converging from three directions on the spot where the German radio said Hitler went down at his command post and observers speculated whether the Russians would find Hitler's body or some other evidence to support or refute the report of his death.

United Press Correspondent Henry Shapiro reported from Moscow that the Soviet siege forces now were fighting for German strong points on the Wilhelmstrasse, Unter Den Linden and Alexanderplatz. Only "small remnants" of the Berlin garrison were defying the "greatest concentration of fire and metal to which any single objective has been subjected in this war," he said.

About 8,000 of the ragtag band of mauled SS troops, women's "death battalions" and Volksturm were killed yesterday in hand to hand fighting, grenading and machine gunning in the heart of Berlin, Soviet reports said.

Plunging through a choking pall of smoke and flame thrown up by the ceaseless cannonading, the first Soviet assault waves stormed in from three sides to within 200 yards of the chancellery building, against maniacal enemy resistance.

ALLIES, GERMANS ARRANGE TRUCE TO FEED DUTCH

PARIS, May 2—The Germans opened Holland to Allied food trucks and ships today under a mysteriously-arranged truce agreed upon by both sides to provide immediate relief for the famine-ridden Dutch people.

Hundreds of Allied trucks, piled high with food and relief supplies, began rolling through the Canadian First army lines into German-occupied western Holland at 7 a. m. today, when the local truce went into effect.

The convoy brought in an estimated 1,000 tons of food to be distributed by Dutch authorities without interference from the Germans. Official spokesmen said it was hoped to maintain this tonnage daily by road, augmented by whatever food could be dispatched to Holland by sea and air delivery.

The truce, promising immediate help for some 3,500,000 Dutch men, women and children in imminent danger of death from starvation, was agreed upon at a hitherto-secret meeting of high Allied and enemy officers Monday.

The conferees, headed by Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of staff to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Nazi commissar for Holland, met in an unnamed Dutch village to arrange the relief deliveries.

Headquarters spokesmen said high Russian, British and Netherlands military officials also attended the meeting. It was the first announced face-to-face conference between top-ranking Allied and enemy commanders, and its implications at this stage of the war were obvious.

Hitler And New "Fuehrer"

ADOLF Hitler, reported by the German radio to have died in Berlin, is shown in a recent picture with Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, who proclaimed himself the new Fuehrer.

Allied Invasion Forces Push New Offensives In Southern Burma, Borneo

By United Press
Allied invasion forces battled in southern Burma and on Borneo today in new offensives to retrieve Japanese-occupied territory.

British troops stormed ashore 20 miles south of Rangoon to clamp a three-way pincers on the capital of the occupied British colony and bring liberation of Burma and its supply lines to China to a climactic stage.

Radio Tokyo announced 5,000 Allied troops had landed on Tarakan island off the east coast of Borneo in the Dutch East Indies Tuesday morning, about 12 hours after Allied assault forces were reported to have landed on Borneo itself.

The Burma landing sent troops swarming ashore on both sides of the mouth of the Rangoon river after a daring thrust deep into Japanese held Mataban gulf.

A special communique of the southeast Asia command revealed paratroops opened the way for the invasion by landing from low-flying transports and knocking out defenses covering the invasion beaches.

A British task force supported the invasion with air and sea bombardments of great Nicobar island, 675 miles southeast of Rangoon. (Continued on Page Two)

VON RUNDSTEDT TAKEN CAPTIVE BY AMERICANS

WITH SEVENTH ARMY IN GERMANY, May 2—An American tank crew surprised Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt at his dinner table and captured the man who had battled the Allies from Normandy to the Rhine, it was announced today.

Von Rundstedt, twice commander of the German armies in the West since the Allied invasion, was taken at 10 p. m. last night at Bad Tolz, a resort town south of Munich.

He was having dinner with his wife and son, Hans Gerd, when a tank commanded by Lt. Joseph Burke rumbled into the hospital grounds at Bad Tolz. Von Rundstedt, who was taking a health treatment, was living in a house attached to the hospital.

Von Rundstedt said he had not expected the Americans until the next morning. He told his captors he last saw Adolf Hitler March 12.

Pfc. Herman Jobe, Warrensburg, Ind., who drove Von Rundstedt and his family to the prisoner of war cage, said, "he seemed ready to surrender."

Yesterday the Seventh army captured two other German field marshals, Wilhelm Ritter von Leeb and Wilhelm List, as well as the former regent of Hungary, Admiral Nicholas Horthy. They also took two lieutenant generals and three major generals.

Washington Wants Proof Hitler Dead

Capital Feeling Is Change In Power Will Make Little Difference

WASHINGTON, May 2—This capital calmly awaited the unfolding of events today to show whether the German radio report of Adolf Hitler's death is true and how the alleged succession of Adm. Karl Doenitz will affect the supposed surrender negotiations.

Though there has been no official comment as yet, the general opinion is that German disintegration is now so nearly complete that even if the Nazis are telling the truth it will make little difference at this stage of the war.

Consequently there is little tendency to rejoice over the news of Hitler's death, just a general feeling of relief that the world is (Continued on Page Two)

BRITISH HAPPY OVER NEWS OF HITLER'S DEATH

LONDON, May 2—Morning newspapers today generally "greeted" the reported death of Adolf Hitler and banneted the news in the largest type used since President Roosevelt's death.

The Daily Express, however, went a step further with a three-column box headed "obituary." It said:

"The Daily Express rejoices to announce the report of Adolf Hitler's death. It prints today every line of information regarding the manner of his death.

"It wastes no inch of space on his career. The evil of his deeds are all too well known. It gives no picture of the world's most hated face. It records that Hitler was born Schickelgruber at Braunau, Austria, April 20, 1889, and his days upon the earth he sought to conquer were too long."

The British people were jubilant over the report, although a number still were skeptical that Hitler had died. When a group of Cockney youths was asked what they thought, one replied: "I don't believe it," another insisted that "he's halfway to Stockholm by now," while a third said "it's a pity a British housewife couldn't have given it to him—that would have been a real show."

American soldiers howled in joy when the report was announced at the Rainbow corner Red Cross club. Corp Charles Cummings, Omaha, Neb., was the first to hear the news.

"I grabbed the mike," he said, "and shouted: 'Hitler's kicked the bucket. Admiral Donuts has taken over.'"

"I don't think they heard that last part. They really howled. There was about a thousand people in the place when I announced it and we had to tie everything down. In about 15 minutes they subsided—I guess they realized the war wasn't over yet and they wouldn't be catching no boats tomorrow."

VATICAN CIRCLES SEE END OF 'MOST CRUEL REGIME'

ROME, May 2—Vatican circles said today that Adolf Hitler's reported death marked the end of what the Catholic church considers one of the most cruel regimes of all time.

It was learned reliably that the Holy See will not go beyond expressing official condolences through the normal channel of the Vatican nuncio in Germany.

Informed Vatican sources said Hitler acted uncivily to both the present pope and his predecessor and never sent either of them a cable or personal letter, no matter how solemn the occasion.

These quarters said history will reproach Hitler for his ignorance of the nature and mission of the church, for his insincere attitude towards the church and for the persecution of Catholic clergy and high prelates.

TRUMAN HAILS EVENT AS PART OF NAZI FINISH

President Warns Japan Of What To Expect From New Developments

SURRENDER MADE TODAY

600,000 To 900,000 German Troops Give Up To Americans, British

ROYAL PALACE AT CASERTA NEAR NAPLES, May 2—The German armies of northern Italy and western Austria formally surrendered to the Allies today effective at 8 a. m. EWT.

The surrender affects between 600,000 and 900,000 men commanded by Col. Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff and Gen. Karl Wolff, chief of police and security minister for northern Italy and western Austria.

Lt. Gen. W. L. Morgan of the British army who negotiated in behalf of Field Marshal Alexander, supreme commander in the Mediterranean, said the terms "in effect are complete and unconditional surrender."

The documents were signed in the royal palace here Sunday by Morgan and two German officers.

WASHINGTON, May 2—President Truman today announced "unconditional surrender" of all German forces in Italy.

The President said "the collapse of military tyranny in Italy, however, is no victory in Italy alone, but a part of the general triumph we are expectantly awaiting on the whole continent of Europe."

"Only folly and chaos can now delay the general capitulation of the everywhere defeated German army," he said.

The President immediately sent messages to Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander and Gen. Mark W. Clark congratulating them for the "complete defeat of Germany in Italy."

At the same time he warned Japan to understand "the full meaning of these events."

HITLER'S GANG DISAPPEARING AS END NEARS

LONDON, May 2—A rollcall of the old Nazi gang today would read like this:

Adolf Hitler—Germans say he is dead.

Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels—believed to be in Berlin where, if he is not dead as some London circles report, his fate certainly is sealed.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering—German said he was pushed out because of bad health, but he is probably dead, too.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop—ousted today by Admiral Doenitz. He had been unheard of for some time.

Rudolf Hess—still captive in Britain.

Deputy Fuehrer Martin Bormann—unheard of recently.

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler—last seen in Luebeck. Significantly not mentioned in reports of Hitler's death and Doenitz' succession. Believed he may die in Berlin also.

FRANCE TO BE INCLUDED
PARIS, May 2—Authorized French sources said today that France has received assurances from the United States, Britain and Russia that any German capitulation will be addressed to France along with the Big Three.

British and Russians Hold Up Approval Of U. S. Plans In Pacific

Molotov was expected to leave Friday for Moscow. Key British and Canadian delegates were confronted with immediate general elections at home.

The question of control of areas seized by the enemy arose here in the form of a "trusteeship" proposal prepared by the American delegation. American officials emphasized that the delegation is unanimous on this question and that its proposals are backed by the state, War and Navy departments in Washington.

The ways of diplomacy being what they are there will be no mention here of Pacific islands or other trustee areas. This conference will merely work out the machinery by which these areas will be administered until the United Nations will divide the areas among the trustees at a later conference.

But the American delegates know what they want. The Army and Navy have their eyes and a lot of armed G.I.s and Marines on most of the islands in question.

Surviving are her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Nellie James, Richmond Dale, Mrs. Lella Burns, Greene township and Mrs. Merle Routt, Kingston; three sons, Charles, Williamsport, Clarence, Kingston, and Frederick, Greene township and twelve grandchildren.

THIRD, SEVENTH PUSH INTO ALPS

Within 20 miles of the Italian frontier.

Supporting infantry forces following up the Seventh army's tank spearheads overran a big German prison camp near Lake Plan, south of Munich, liberating 80 prominent French generals and former government officials, as well as nine Belgian political leaders.

Front dispatches said the Germans were putting up virtually no resistance in the path of the Third and Seventh armies. Tank spearheads of the two American forces overran scores of undefended road blocks and the principal obstacles to their advance appeared to be demolitions and scattered mines sown by the fleeing enemy.

United Press dispatches from the Swiss-German frontier said Rundstedt's successor, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, was reported to have taken personal command of the witting Nazi armies in the south, establishing his headquarters in the Brezgen forest southeast of Lake Constance.

LIEUTENANT JIMMY DODD IS MISSING IN ACTION

First Lieutenant Jimmy Dodd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dodd of Miami, Fla., formerly of Circleville, is reported as missing in action over Germany. Lieut. Dodd was bombardier on a B-24 and had almost completed the required number of missions.

Lieut. Dodd, whose mother is the former Mae Graulich of this city, is a nephew of Mrs. Elgin Merriman of North Court street.

COUNCIL HOLDS SHORT SESSION

Mayor's, Hospital Report Made At First Meeting Of The Month

No resolutions or ordinances were passed at a short session of City council Tuesday night. Reports from city officials and councilmen were heard.

The state is making no effort to repair Court street, Clarence Helvering, city service director, reported to the council. Members of the service committee, he said, are going to Delaware to further attempt to create the state highway department's interest in the resurfacing of the street.

Frank Knece, 779 East Watt, reported that his yard, garden and basement is being flooded by water dripping from the alley running between Watt and Main street. The matter was referred to the Service Department for survey.

Councilman George Crites suggested that a letter be written to the N and W railroad asking them to desist from making so much unnecessary noise in the corporation limits.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon reported that $33.50 had been turned over to the city treasury from fines assessed by the mayor's court. $12.50 of the amount is earmarked for street repair funds. This amount came as the city's share from Highway Patrol cases.

Miss Frances G. Lannan, superintendent, Berger Hospital, reported that 561 days of hospital care were given in April. There were 13 patients in the hospital at the end of April. They had 18 births, 1 death and 10 operations. 71 patients were admitted and 77 discharges during the month. Collections totaled $2,810.39. Expenses were $3,789.36.

Balances in the city treasury as of April 30 were: general fund, $2,797.03. Sewage disposal fund, $12,967.33. Library fund, $2,631.27. Street repair fund, $3,290.41. Gasoline tax, $1,749.13. Hospital fund, $1,977.73. Parking meter collections for April totaled $1,074.65.

well rid of him—if he is really dead.

The general skepticism felt throughout the Allied world was expressed here by Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., a member of the senate military affairs committee.

"I'd suspect the report and would like to see the body," Johnson said. "I don't believe those darn hounds at all. They might pull anything."

Sen. Styles Bridges, R., N. H., also said, "I want to find out if the report is true. If it is, it means the end is close at hand."

Important questions arise if Doenitz really has taken command of the German nation. One is whether he will attempt to make new contacts with the Allies. Another is the question of how serious he can be about continuing the fight in view of the rapid overrunning of the Reich by Allied armies.

A third question is what has happened to Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, who was reported to be conducting surrender negotiations with the Allies.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Commissioner Lester Bagley of the state game and fish department says a mean, vicious moose which has been ambushing unwary civilians in the vicinity of Moran, Wyo., might not have a legal right to do so, but can continue until an official complaint is received by his department. The department has disposed of mean moose in the past, but not until it received an official complaint.

goon, and Port Blair in the Andaman islands, 425 miles southwest of the capital.

Other British ground forces, driving from northern Burma, were reported closing on Rangoon from points 36 miles north and 12 miles northeast.

There were reports that the Japanese were preparing to abandon Rangoon and it was indicated the city might fall without a major battle.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur did not confirm the Borneo landings but an official Australian announcement said yesterday that Australian troops participated in a landing on the island's east coast.

Tokyo said troops landed on Tarakan after three cruisers and 13 destroyers had bombarded the island since last Friday. The broadcast said Japanese forces were "holding secure to their positions and blocking the enemy advance."

American Troops on Mindanao in the southeastern Philippines continued a drive north along Davao gulf and reached within six miles of Davao city.

American armored forces battered through strong Japanese defenses on southern Okinawa to reach within a mile and a half of Naha, the capital. On the east coast of the island other American troops pushed to the north end of Yonabaru airfield.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' air forces attacked enemy installations in the Sakishimas, southwest of Okinawa and in the northern Ryukyus.

A Tokyo broadcast claimed a Japanese "submarine unit" sank two unidentified Allied warships south of Okinawa, about 120 miles southeast of Okinawa.

ed through Berlin's famed Tiergarten a few hundred yards to the west, where the rest of the Nazi garrison was being cut to pieces by converging attacks from all directions.

The trapped Germans, apparently told by their leaders that Hitler had fallen at his command post in the chancellery, showed no signs of quitting. They fought back with a hopeless fury behind thick stone walls and inside deep cellars, taking a bloody toll for every yard of lost ground.

But Moscow dispatches and some enemy broadcasts made it clear that the battle of Berlin was roaring into its final hours.

Soviet front reporters telephoned word back to Moscow that the last enemy defenses in the center of the ruined city were collapsing, literally torn apart by the deluge of shells pouring in on them hour after hour throughout the day and night.

The Russians captured another 100 city blocks in Berlin yesterday, took 14,000 prisoners and killed 8,000 enemy troops, swelling the German losses in the 12-day-old battle to more than 193,000 killed, wounded or captured.

LADY NEARLY CHOKED WHILE LYING IN BED—DUE TO STOMACH GAS

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at night. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat but had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got ERB-HELP and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all Drug Stores in Circleville.

PENSION, SCHOOL BILLS STUDIED BY LEGISLATORS

COLUMBUS, May 2.—The Ohio general assembly today found itself confronted again with two of the hottest issues of the present legislative session—the substitute judges' pension bill and the hotly-debated Daniels-Cramer school bill.

The judges' pension bill comes before the senate for action this afternoon while the house education committee will consider the school bill tonight along with the Tarr bill to give schools approximately $900,000,000 during the next two years.

The Daniels-Cramer bill, which has drawn the fire of Gov. Frank J. Lausche and the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, would give schools an estimated $11,000,000 during the next biennium, or about $15-200,000 more than they received in 1933-34.

The pension bill was placed on the senate calendar by the rules committee yesterday after a stormy session. The bill previously was recommended for passage by the senate judiciary committee by a vote of six to three.

Private Joe A. McKinley, ASN 35985071, Barrack 2 Btry "C", 34th Bn. 8th Tng. Regt., Fort Sill, Okla., is the third grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McKinley, Williamsport Route 1, to enter service in the armed forces. A former resident of Circleville, P. McKinley was associated with the local AAA office and later with the Circleville State Liquor store.

New address for Private William J. Lindsey is: ASN 35887683, ACF Rep. Dep. No. 1, Fort George T. Meade, Md.

Private First Class Avery (Bill) Heeter, who had been in a hospital in England for the last three months, has arrived in the states, according to a telegram received by his mother, Mrs. Anna Heeter, 344 East Mill street. Pfc. Heeter talked to his sister, Mrs. Jack Mogan, of Circleville, by phone from New York City. He told her that he would be in the Army hospital there for a couple of days before being sent to a hospital closer home. Heeter, who has been in the army for the last two years, spent 19 months overseas, serving in North Africa, Sicily, Italy and France. He was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in action in France January 25. He was serving with the 36th Combat Engineers.

ASHVILLE

Mrs. Robert Courtwright and daughter, Kathleen, of Indianapolis are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Courtwright and family.

The final meeting of the Ashville P.-T. A. for the present school year will be held Wednesday evening. After a brief business meeting and the election of officers for the next school year, the program will be turned over to Earl Downey of Canal Winchester who will lead those in attendance in games and stunts. Everyone in the community is invited.

Sherman Raser of South Bloomfield is seriously ill at his home.

A co-operative supper will be held at the Methodist Church Sunday evening with Rev. Woodworth and family being the honored guests.

Claude Kraft, Hewitt Cromley, P. O. Moore, and Edwin Irwin attended the meeting of Philos Lodge No. 64 in Circleville Monday evening.

Considerable progress has been made toward assuring a Fourth of July celebration for Ashville this summer on a scale comparable with previous celebrations. Reports of committees Monday evening showed that considerable ground work for the event has already been made.

Results of the state eighth grade tests released by County superintendent George D. McDowell Tuesday show that Ashville's eighth grade earned the highest median score in the county, while several local pupils will receive awards for being in the upper 25% in the county. The following were winners of county awards: Mary Fudge, June Litten, Clara Lou Peters, Richard Bozman, David Six, Judith Litten, Dorothy Gloyd, Clarence Foreman, and Suzelle Johnson. Mary Fudge, who placed third in the county, was one of three county pupils to place in the upper 1% in the state.

Miss Ada Lou Beckett, Miss Elizabeth Reid, and Will W. Fischer collaborated to move the pictures of local folk in service to the windows of the Ashville Post Office. Anyone having a picture of a serviceman or woman who wishes to have the picture placed on display can leave it with Miss Mary Jane Higley at the post office.

Elmer Mallory has completed several solo flights and hopes to receive his wings soon. He is stationed at San Antonio, Texas. Mrs. Mallory and daughter, Dianne are staying with him.

WILLIAMSPORT SENIOR PLAY IS SET FOR FRIDAY

"Mama's Baby Boy" by Charles George will be presented by the Senior class of Williamsport high school Friday, May 4, at 8 p. m. Mrs. Ida Ware will direct the production. Ray Creighton will be in charge of the music and Dale Keller and Jim Ziegler will be stage managers.

The play concerns Mrs. McLean, a very attractive widow, nearing 40, who has her 18-year-old son dress and pose as a youth of fourteen, so that she might pass as a younger woman and marry a widower, whom she believes to be wealthy. In turn, Mr. Luther, the widower, trying to appear younger, has his 17-year-old daughter pose as a girl of 13, so that he might wed Mrs. McLean whom he believes to be rich. Neither one has a cent, both having lost their money in the stock market.

The situation leads to no end of amusing complications, when they both try to keep the knowledge of their losses from each other, also the real ages of their respective offspring.

The boy's grandmother, Mrs. Blackburn, adds to the fun by appearing in a ridiculously youthful costume and when his friends see him dressed in his youthful attire, they, too, dress up in youthful fashion to tease him. Even the colored maid becomes youthful.

Norma Hulse will appear as Mrs. Shepherd McLean; Carl Schein, Sheperd McLean; Don Dewey, Luther Long; Mildred Frazier, Juliet Long; Betty Miner, Mrs. Matilda Blackburn; Wayne Harker, Wilbur Warren; Kathleen Francis, Sylvia Kilne; Leah Jean Wheat, Mrs. Carlotta Anglin; Loreta Hill, Cynthia Anglin; Max Forquer, Max Moore, and Reda M. Southward, as Minnie.

NO SHOOTING!

"I should like to assure the conference," said Foreign Commissar Molotov in starting the big international pow-wow, "that our country is devoted to the cause of setting up an organization to protect the peace. I wish you to know that the Soviet Union can be relied upon to protect the peace. Our peaceful people, the Red Army, and our great Marshal Stalin, are inflexibly supporting this great cause."

So are all of us, except our declared enemies, and it is reassuring to find such unanimity. The Soviet leaders are presumably sincere about it.

There is one little consideration, however, which can help to sustain the general attitude of peace and good will shown by the men dominating the conference. It is to speak softly and deal gently in all public statements, and avoid scaring delegations and nations out of their boots while the dickering is going on.

OLD-FASHIONED WAR

MAGDEBURG is almost completely destroyed for the second time in its history. Disarming as is the sight of the factories and houses reduced to rubble, the city lacks the horror that attached to the first fall of Magdeburg in 1631.

This was the middle of the Thirty Years War, when religious quarrels divided Germany. The Austrian empire, aided by the southern Germans and Spain, fought successively the North Germans, Bohemia, Denmark, Sweden and France. Magdeburg, a North German stronghold, was captured by the Austrians and given over to the soldiers to plunder. To scenes of savage cruelty succeeded fire. Finally the city was destroyed, leaving only 5,000 of the city's 30,000 inhabitants alive, and these mostly women.

War's destruction is bad enough today; but whatever the Nazis do, armies of the United Nations do not increase its horrors by plunder and massacre.

MORE MATHEMATICS

NEW YORK City has discovered that a surprisingly large number of its high school students didn't know enough arithmetic. Standard tests given to freshmen this year showed that they knew less than they had a year or so before. The city fathers, thinking no doubt of income tax blanks and OPA forms and such-like everyday needs for addition, subtraction, and division, both long and short, are doing something about it.

They say that every student who can't pass the tests will be required, whether he be freshman or senior, to take a course in practical arithmetic. And if he doesn't pass at the end of the course, he'll take it over again.

Drastic measures, but those kids will be glad of them later.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2—The juncture at Torgau came about the same time as the one here, but was more than a little different. The Yank and Red Starist who brought the two armies together in Germany drank champagne from beer mugs and slapped each other on the back. There was none of that here.

The meeting of the minds on the first series of conference compromises was not even celebrated by an announcement of official comment although the press had been kept waiting two hours, practically breathless, to get it. Mr. Stettinius had called the newsmen together to give out the explanations and then had to tell them with confessed embarrassment that he could not give it out.

The fact was the juncture here did not seem to offer the best possible publicity value. We had at least a three to one vote over the Russians on the first Molotov proposition. Britain and China were with us on following the diplomatic precedent and common social amenity by letting the host be the chairman of the conference. Frankly I do not recall having heard of a conference at which the host nation was not in charge of the chairmanship as a matter of courtesy. I have not heard of any other nation at this conference which was behind the noval Russian proposition, except Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, which probably are two votes for Russia anytime.

Thus we gave more generously than may have been evident in the bare announcements, by accepting the British "compromise" of rotating chairmanships under a restriction which retains administrative control of the conference to Stettinius. The deal preserved our just position as host from the practical standpoint, but gave Molotov the prestige of having broken the usual custom.

At the first juncture out here, we gave also on the Stalin proposition of three seats for Russia in the assembly. On this Mr. Truman said in effect Mr. Roosevelt had promised it to Stalin at Livadia out of consideration to the war effort of the Ukraine and White Russia and the devastation they have suffered. Well, we have 48 states which contributed to the war effort—including Russia's—although they have not suffered devastation, and it seems to me a somewhat disjointed conclusion anyway that votes in the assembly should be awarded on the basis of devastation. That part of the excuse sounded shallow, and our generosity in the matter was apparent in the Stettinius announcement before he left Washington that we would give up what Mr. Roosevelt was claiming as his part in the deal—three seats for us. The balance side of the ledger for us in the matter is not apparent, and the British are keeping their six.

But Mr. Truman was on sound ground with his final conclusion that as Mr. Roosevelt had given his word of approval, he would adhere to that word.

If leaders do not keep their word—word given for their nations not for themselves personally and therefore not to die with—

Fatigue, a Nervous Disorder Rather Than Organic Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A PERSON suffering from weakness, exhaustion, fatigue, loss of ambition and low vitality, often believes that he is suffering from some serious disease, such as a weak heart or cancer, or he may attribute his symptoms to a lack of vitamins, to constipation or a sluggish liver. But fatigue is more likely to be due to some nervous disturbance than to any of these disorders. Thus, Doctor Frank N. Allen, of Boston, examined the records of about 300 patients whose principal symptom was weakness or fatigue. In one-fifth of them, some physical disorder was found and in the remaining, a nervous disturbance of one kind or another seemed to be responsible.

A nervous disorder may be assumed to be the cause of fatigue, particularly when energy is low in the morning and improves during the day, or when periods of vigor are followed by days of exhaustion with no particular explanation for the difference.

A number of persons with fatigue seem to be quickly benefited by the taking of vitamins, thyroid extract, or some iron preparation, but all of these materials are slow in their action. Hence, the immediate benefits which seem to be obtained indicate that the fatigue is due to a nervous disturbance rather than to a need for any of the materials administered. Another indication that the fatigue is due to nervous disorders is the immediate return of symptoms when some customary treatment is omitted for a single day. The continued presence of fatigue over a period of years, together with other symptoms of nervousness, anxiety and worry, is also the result of some nervous disturbance rather than organic disease.

Of course, the type of mental disturbance known as a neurosis, due to anxiety, worry and fear, has fatigue as one of its most prominent symptoms, but a nervous disorder may not reach the severity of a neurosis and still produce fatigue.

In view of the fact that fatigue, in about one-fifth of the cases, would appear to be due to some actual disease process, it is always necessary that persons with fatigue be given a thorough physical examination, including the various laboratory tests, such as blood count, urine examination and X-rays of the chest. If such a careful study reveals no disease condition, a mental inquiry into the patient's mental state should be carried out in order to determine the source of the nervous disorder which then may be eliminated.

Tomorrow: Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Dangers of the Sulfonamide Drugs."

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

From then on, Lily had regarded Lucienne with new eyes, the eyes of one woman measuring an adversary. When she had given Lucienne her sponge bath, she noted bitterly the smoothness of the young body, the delicate breasts, the faint roundness of the abdomen, the long lovely legs.

But now everything was fine again. Last night, when she went off duty she had hurried home. Home was a one-room apartment, with a Murphy bed and certainly nothing to rush to, but it gave her privacy.

She fixed herself a light second supper. Then she stretched out and read the paper, and listened to a favorite radio program.

And all the time, she was tense inside, waiting. Waiting, as she waited every night. Telephone, ring. Please ring, please. Perhaps if I take a walk around the block, it'll ring. But I won't be here to answer. . . .

At nine-fifteen, a miracle happened. There was a knock on the door, his knock.

"Hello, Lily. Aren't you going to ask me in?" he asked.

He wore a navy blue suit with a pencil stripe. He wore a dark red carnation in his lapel. Like Dr. McCormick's flower, she thought; Ralph certainly admires Dr. McCormick.

"Don't stand there, Lily," he said. "This is the first free night I've had in weeks." He walked past her into the small room, the room that was so familiar to him. "How about dinner and a movie, Lily? Wear that black dress of yours. It's darn becoming!"

They went to a small Italian restaurant at the River Basin. Ralph ate lustily, minestrone, chicken cacciatore, spaghetti, biscuit tortoni.

Lily had no appetite. "How's Doctor McCormick?" she asked idly, just to start conversation.

"He's okay," Ralph liked to talk about Dr. McCormick. "He's getting ready to present his collection of medical books to the city. It's going to be some ceremony!"

Lily looked hopeful; perhaps Ralph would take her. "What about his son? Do they get along all right?"

"Fair," Ralph's slanting eyes were guarded. "Of course, they don't think alike. Doctor McCormick is a big shot, but his son doesn't let him get away with anything. The old man has invited me to the house a couple of times," he added proudly.

"Do you think," she breathed, "that you'll get the job as his assistant?"

"I can't tell yet." His face was suddenly malevolent. If it weren't for Gail Benton, he'd be sure of the job. She was his only effective rival. People liked her, and she was up and coming. But she was a stiff-necked creature, in his opinion, and uncooperative. Look at the time he sent her a patient, a woman who complained of abnormal bleeding, and was so fretful and cranky he couldn't handle her. So he sent her to Gail for a consultation, expecting to get his cut. But Dr. Benton didn't work that way, she assured him angrily, she was no fee splitter!

Lily tried to get him back into better humor. "I'm so glad you didn't join the Army Medical Corps like some of the doctors," she said.

"I'm needed here," he said shortly. "I'll get a deferment somehow." If Dr. McCormick chose him, it would help. He'd certainly be essential to the hospital then. Gail was so pleased over her new job as Springfield Health Officer. Let her have it! A thankless job it was—treating all those poor sick fools.

"What about a movie?" he suggested abruptly.

It was the regular routine. Dinner, a movie, and then the return to her small apartment. . . .

Its very familiarity was as exciting as the knowledge that he needed and wanted her. "No one can take him away," she had thought exultantly. "He'll never really forget me—or be free of me!"

She stirred, coming back to the present, to this hospital room, to Reyna Thayer.

She approached the sickbed. Miss Thayer was awake, her sharp blue eyes regarding Lily impersonally.

"How do you feel this morning?" It was Lily's bland, professional voice.

"Like the devil. I'm burning up. Get me something cold to drink, will you?"

Lily fed her pineapple juice through a glass sipper.

"I dreamed last night I was young again," Reyna said presently.

"What is it Shaw says—a pity youth is wasted on the young. Miss Lashan, what are you doing with your life?"

"Living it," Lily answered pertly.

"In love, are you?"

Lily nodded.

"With a doctor?" Reyna frowned.

"Don't fall for a doctor. Take my advice."

"They both looked up as Gail Benton came in. "Reyna," Gail said, "are you ready to get up and fight the world?"

Reyna sighed. "Not quite, my dear. . . . That's a frightful suit you're wearing. Seersucker, of all things!"

"Very serviceable," Gail said with a smile. Reyna must be better if she were criticizing clothes. But after picking up the chart, her smile grew feline. The fever was still high. The drug was not producing its customary miracle. Perhaps if she increased the dose? It was the only thing she could do. Without it, Reyna might not live.

Though it was still early morning, Gail's face showed fatigue. "Reyna, Agnes telephoned me about an hour ago."

"What did the sweet, kind witch want?"

"There will be another doctor here, for a consultation."

Obviously, Gail wanted this over quickly. For the door opened, and Dr. Cassius McCormick came in, tall, scholarly, impatient, aloof.

Reyna stared, speechless but believing. "I will examine your patient, Doctor Benton," McCormick said coldly.

He came over to the bed. He looked down at Reyna, his eyes expressionless behind their shell-rimmed glasses, his mouth hidden by a vandyke.

Reyna's face did not match his in indifference, but was a flame of hatred and contempt. In her eyes old conflicts were mirrored. Because of this man, she'd remained an old maid, loveless and discontented, filling her life with shoddy substitutes.

"We meet at sickbeds," he said dryly.

"You like it that way," she said angrily. "It makes you feel superior. My fool sister-in-law had no business calling you. I'm satisfied with my own doctor!"

She lay back, spent. He ignored her words. He sat down and made ready for the examination. Gail watched him with reluctant admiration, despite the fact he had been unusually frigid to her ever since the time she'd disagreed with him about poor Mr. Zayle's diagnosis.

The examination over, he called Gail into the corridor. "You have been giving her that new drug. Take her off it immediately. She is to have no medication of any kind."

She stared at him, stunned. "But Doctor McCormick—"

"Those are my orders, Doctor Benton." He nodded curtly and walked off down the hall.

Orders? Who did he think he was, she thought furiously? How does he know he's right? She ought to run after him, to ask him the reason for his order, and what he thought was wrong with Reyna. . . . Well, I'll be darned if I will; she rebelled. He'd treating me like a child; furthermore he was wrong on Zayle's diagnosis, he may be wrong here. I can't just take his word, she thought. Without the drug, Reyna may die.

Anger and resentment made her nerves raw. Reyna was her patient. She was responsible for the sick woman's recovery. And she believed in the new drug. Dear God, make it work! Don't let Reyna die!

She picked up the chart and wrote down the day's dosage, with firm fingers. Then she went in to see Reyna.

Hints on Etiquette

Some folks say they cannot write letters. When writing to a friend, try to think that you are sitting beside him or her and write what you would say to them under those circumstances.

Tell the news, little humorous incidents, express interest in your friends' friends, in what the friend is doing, etc.

Today's Horoscope

If today is the anniversary of your birth, you do not possess a good business head, but should make a wise guardian and ruler of the home. You are very patient, generous to a fault, avoid conflicts and arguments, and are well liked by all who meet you.

Make no radical move today unless your family agrees; otherwise they might frustrate your plans. Listen to what the experienced have to say, for your own judgment might be prejudiced. Retire early.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKING OUT A DOUBLE

YOU CAN'T blame the cartoonists for making merry over the players who take out their partners' business doubles. There are times when such doubles should be taken out—when your own hand is weaker defensively than you have led your partner to believe, and when it is so strong offensively that you are virtually certain to amass an appreciable bigger score for your side by buying the contract. But plenty of takeouts of penalty doubles have no such basis.

South led his heart 10, the Q forcing the A. The spade 4 to the Q put North in with the A to cash the heart K and lead the club 10 to the A. That put the contract down one trick, worth 200 points.

New First Lady Patient, Quiet, Unaffected Woman

Writer Thinks Mrs. Truman Won't Hold Press Meetings

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Many pleasant Mrs. Truman stories are being told and retold around the capital. I'm convinced you'll have to work hard not to like the new First Lady and admire her modesty and sincerity.

There is the bit about Mrs. Truman's hairdresser and the beautiful crowd. This happened during the last weeks of Mr. Truman's term as vice president. Mrs. Truman needed to have her hair done. Most women do almost every day.

So she called her hairdressing shop out on Connecticut avenue and asked for an appointment. The hairdresser's clerk said she was sorry but it would be impossible to take Mrs. Truman for another week. She doubted if time could be arranged even then.

At the expiration of the week, Mrs. Truman phoned again. She got almost the same answer, but this time the hairdresser's clerk said she would try to fit Mrs. Truman in within the next fortnight. She suggested Mrs. Truman put her name on the waiting list.

Mrs. Truman did put her name on the waiting list. She didn't say as thousands of less important clients say to harassed beauticians: "It does seem strange to me that you can't take me. Why can't you fit me in somewhere?" She merely took her turn patiently and did not once remind the apologetic clerk: "You forget, I am the wife of the vice president of the United States."

Naturally there is much discussion of the manner in which Mrs. Truman will conduct herself as First Lady. She is probably being given earnest advice at this very minute: "You must be like this. . . ."

"You mustn't be like that. . . ."

Dr. Mateer Speaker At Conservation League

Group Votes $10 To Local Cancer Control Drive

Dr. Florence Mateer, of Columbus, a psychologist, was guest speaker Tuesday at the annual tea of the Child Conservation League entertained at the home of Mrs. Theodore Huston, Stoutsville. Dr. Mateer's subject was: "Twenty Years After Growing in War Time" and was presented under four headings: 1. Health problems; 2. Delinquency or Easy Money Problems; 3. Emotionalism and 4. Religion.

Dr. Mateer held the close attention of the group with her informative discussion. She was presented by Mrs. John W. Eshelman, chairman of the program committee.

Mrs. Huston, outgoing president, received the reports of Mrs. Richard McAllister, secretary, and read her own report of the year's work before turning the gavel to Mrs. Lemuel Weldon, new president of the society.

Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson, program chairman for 1945-1946, reported that the programs were not ready for distribution but gave an outline for the year's work.

The league members voted $10 to the Cancer Control society. A colorful arrangement of Spring flowers centered the lovely tea table in the dining room where refreshments were served during the social hour. Mrs. Weldon and Mrs. J. E. Groom poured.

The committee responsible for the delightful affair included Mrs. Huston, Mrs. Joseph Adkins, Jr., Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. Eshelman, Mrs. R. P. Routzahn and Mrs. John Dunlap, Jr.

Nebraska Grange

Private Roger Bowers, home on furlough from Texas, spoke during the meeting of Nebraska grange held Tuesday in the grange hall. During the business hour in charge of Joseph Peters, worthy master, the grange voted almost unanimously in favor of the house bill concerning the time.

It was announced that Pomona grange meeting would be held May 26 in Pickaway township school auditorium with Logan Elm grange as host.

The program was presented by several of the home economic students of Walnut township school with Miss Beatrice Cleveland, the instructor, in charge. Mary Ruth Dresbach displayed several dresses which she had made and told of her projects. Mary Ellen Calvert discussed her rug project and demonstrated the construction of several. Vivian Martin played "Beautiful Dreamer" as a clarinet solo with accompaniment by Miss Dana Poling. Floradine Snyder explained her program during the Summer as a nurses' aid at Grant hospital. Olive Spangler reported on the making of cushion tops. Eileen Albin sang "Together" with Miss Poling as accompanist. Alice Koehler reported on her project and displayed some crochet work. Donna Jean Spangler told how she had redecorated her bedroom with very little expense.

Mrs. Olive Quillen, chairman of the grange home economic committee, will present the program at the next meeting, May 15. Women members are asked to enter the house dress contest or to make Soya rolls. For recipe and particulars concerning the rolls, members are asked to contact Mrs. Quillen, Mrs. Wayne Hines or Mrs. Homer Reber.

All grangers were asked to attend the meeting of Clear Creek grange, Amanda, Thursday at 8:30 p. m. when Nebraska degree team is to confer the degree work on a class of candidates.

14,857 Pounds of Clothing Collected for Liberated Countries

FINAL REPORT REVEALS HIGH QUALITY ITEMS

City Gave 8,060 Pounds To Drive; Instructions For Shipping Awaited

A total of 14,857 pounds of good serviceable clothing was collected in the Pickaway county old clothing drive, the final report revealed Wednesday.

Boyd Stout, county chairman, said the Circleville collection totaled 8,060 pounds and the county 6,797 pounds. Almost all of the clothing collected was of the kind asked by the national organization sponsoring the drive for clothes for residents of liberated countries.

Mr. Stout's report showed the following breakdown on clothing received:

Infant's clothes (under three years), 3,271 pounds.
Men's and boys' (over nine years), 4,997 pounds.
Women's and girls' (over nine years), 6,567 pounds.
Shoes, 1,282 pounds.
Bedding and miscellaneous, 575 pounds.

The clothing has been packed and the committee is awaiting instructions on shipping it to a central collection station.

Mr. Stout expressed appreciation to all who participated in the successful drive. Special thanks were given Carl Bennett, county chairman; Hal Dean, Circleville chairman; J. Wallace Crist, collection chairman; Paul Rodenfels, publicity chairman; and the members of the committee who processed the clothing at the collection station; Alice Ada May, Harold Limback, John Bolender and Fred Donnelly. Also receiving thanks for the part they played in the collection were members of the women's clubs who helped in the processing; members of various organizations who helped in the collection; donors of trucks and others who aided the drive.

in—agreements here or anywhere will not be worth making.

But at the initial San Francisco juncture there were no announcements about others keeping words given even before the start of this war about freedom, about Poland and the real basic structure upon which this conference program was erected. There is the word given in the Atlantic charter by Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill which all here have since signed and which was specifically passed on to Russia through the Anglo-Russian treaty of May 26, 1942. This word was that no one—absolutely no one—would seek any "aggrandizement territorial or otherwise" (hegemonies?); would not even allow territorial changes except "with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned" (London poles?), and thus fully "recognize the rights of all people to choose the form of government under which they will live". . . . but we are—even promising specifically "sovereign rights and self government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them (Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, etc.)"

The Anglo-Russia treaty started out with the pledge that its very purpose was to "give expression. . . at the peace settlement and during reconstruction. . . on the basis of the principles . . . made on August 14, 1941 (the above cited Roosevelt-Churchill charter)." Furthermore, that treaty describes the promised principles as those "to which the government of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics" had already adhered (Moscow declaration.) This was the basis of our Lend-Lease help to Britain and Russia and "military and other assistance" and everything we have done since then, and the documents say so. Indeed the Anglo-Russian treaty pledges "non-interference in the internal affairs of other states" in those exact, unerasable words.

If those promised words are to be forgotten, many people out

JAYCEES PLAN FATHERS' DAY DINNER MEETING

Father's Day dinner plans were formulated at the Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting at Betz's restaurant Tuesday evening. The date of the dinner will probably be the Tuesday after Father's Day Sunday.

Frank Susa reported the work that the Jaycees are doing on the ball field at Ted Lewis Park. The operations of the Jaycee team was explained to the membership by Elliot White. George Mallett is the team manager. Uniforms are being ordered for the team members by the organization.

The Jaycees are beginning to canvass the southeast section of the city for subscribers to a city garbage collection system.

Changes were made in the by-laws to allow the membership to elect organization officers by a two-thirds vote. Officers were formerly elected by the board of directors.

Jaycee President Boyd Stout was endorsed by the membership as a candidate for the office of State Junior Chamber of Commerce president. The state election will take place at the convention in Columbus June 1, 2 and 3.

HARRY CLIFTON HURT FIGHTING ON OKINAWA

Mrs. Harry Clifton received a card from Harry Clifton Jr. that he had been wounded on Okinawa serving as a first aid man with a medical detachment.

He had been struck, he wrote, by a Jap bullet which glanced off his helmet and lodged in his shoulder. He had been returning from the combat area with a wounded soldier when he was struck by the Jap bullet.

The bullet tore the side out of his steel helmet. He was removed from Okinawa to a hospital to Saitan. The evacuation was made by plane. It was not so bad, he wrote, to be hit, it is very nice in the hospital.

There is said to be more vitamin A in yellow cornmeal than in white.
